Hearing and eye sight

Does your child seem not to hear you? Do they have the TV on very loud? Is there a family history of hearing difficulties? Hearing concerns should be discussed with your GP, who could refer your child for a hearing test.

Does your child have a squint or is there a family history of sight problems? Your child's vision will be checked at school during the reception year. If you have concerns before this you can contact an Optician for a free appointment.

Development

Development is not a 'one size fits all', but are you concerned that your child isn't developing in the same way as other children of the same age?

- Using their hands e.g. drawing or threading (fine motor skills)
- Speech and communication e.g. how many words they know and say? Do they stammer? Do other people understand what they are saying?
- Problem solving
- Playing, sharing and reading together
- Problems with weeing or pooing
- Growth – height, weight and healthy eating
- Sleeping

Emotional health and behaviour

Are you concerned about your child's behaviour? Such as managing their feelings, playing with other children or sitting still/concentration. All children show their feelings in different ways and this can be tricky to understand. We have online resources that can help.
